THE KID'S CHRONICLE Us FELLOWS gave a side show yes-tidday in my back yard, awl beeing sipposed to meet in frunt of my house aftir skool, and the ony persin that wasent there was Skinny Martin. G, wares Skinny, sed Puds Simkins, we got to have Skinny, we cant give the show without a living skellington. And we awl went eround to Shinnys house to see if he had caim hoam yet, which he had, and he was looking out of the 2nd stoary window, and we awl yelled up at him. Sid Hunt yelling, Hay, Skinny, wat are you keeping the side show back for, and Puds Simkins yelling, Hay, Skinny, dont you no yure the living skellington. Wich jest then the parler window opened and Skinny Martins farthir stuck his hed out to see who was doing awl the yelling, sayin, Well, wats the excitement, wats the excitement. Mr. Martin beeing about twise as lawng as Skinny and 3 times as skinny for his size.

We want Skinny to kum out, I sed. Archibald has bin a bad boy and he must stay in the house this aftirnoon, sed Mr. Martin. And Skinny startid to make sines up at the window, meening for me to try to coax his farthir, and I sed, But G wiss, Mr. Martin, hes in our side show, hes in our side show and weve bin wateing for him.

The ideer, wy wat cood Archibald do in a side show, ha ha, sed Mr. Martin. Wich jest then Jonny Willson gave me a jab in the back, meening for me not to say living skellington awn akkount of Mr. Martin besing so skinny himself. Hes going to be the thin man, I sed. The wat, wats that, enyhow, sed Mr. Martin.

The skellington, I sed.

Is that so, well hes going to be nuthing of the kind, sed Mr. Martin, its no crime to be slender, and im not going to have my son made a specktakil of. Not a ordinary skellington, a living skellington, I sed. No kind of a skellington, confound it, sed Mr. Martin, jest bekause sum of you boys look like belstirs. Im not going to have you make a spectabil of my son, its no arims to be alender, is it.

No sir, we don't think its a crime, was less think its funny, I sed. Well you get anuthir think, and Mr. Martin. And ha simmed down the window mad and shiony as engining, and we went and had the pitte show without skinny Mastie.
